PAINTing Seeds of Faith:

Children from kindergarten to 5th grade are welcome to join us on Saturday, April 13 from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m. in McMillen Hall for our first ever PAINTing Seeds of Faith night! Our hope with this paint night is to get our children more involved with the Planting Seeds of Faith Auction on April 28. We will be auctioning off the artwork our young students make. What if your child may not be the best artist?

That is okay!!

No one here is a professional painter and we are aware that God gives us all many different gifts. We would still encourage them to come and paint with us because of the good it can create. We will provide all the art supplies they will need AND dinner will be provided too.

But here is the best part, it is 100% completely free!! We would love to see your children on April 13!

From Pastor Keith L. DeVries:
"Planting Seeds of Faith"

Spring is such a wonderful season of new life, where the temperature gets warmer, plants begin to grow, you spend more time outdoors (thank you Daylight Saving Time), and you have more opportunities to enjoy God's good creation all around us. The other day, my wife, Jenny, pointed out to me some flowers that were growing in our fallow garden area (with the addition of a puppy to our household last year, we were reluctant to invest time and money in attempting to grow vegetables, so the bed has remained fallow, mostly...). When I asked Jenny about what was growing in our garden, she said "Someone gave us a package of wildflowers. I planted them in September rather hastily. I spread them out and covered them with about a ½ inch of dirt and then I watered them one time. It had been a hot fall, so I didn't think they would take hold. So, when we had eight flowers growing at the end of February, I was amazed!" And as you can see by the pictures, something did grow!

From year to year, we don't know whether the seeds we plant will grow and flourish. In the past, when we tried to have a vegetable garden, it seemed like only every other year would the seeds and/or seedlings actually become a garden. But, even with our less than overwhelming success, we kept on trying. We kept on applying

"Someone gave us a package of wildflowers. I planted them in September rather hastily ... I watered them one time... So, when we had eight flowers growing at the end of February, I was amazed!"

fertilizer, kept on adding nutrient enriched soils, kept on watering, and kept on hoping that the local rat population wouldn't enjoy the fruit of our labors before we did.

One of the ways that we plant a garden at CPC is through our participation in the Planting Seeds of Faith auction and lunch, which is scheduled for April 28. Over the past twenty auctions that we have held, we have planted a plethora of seeds, by supporting financially three important areas of our ministry with children and youth: Vacation Bible School, summer camp scholarships, and mission trips. These auction events have made it possible to offer Vacation Bible School to thousands of children, provide camp scholarships to hundreds of kids, and take hundreds of youths on mission trips far and near. Because of your generosity and support, we have raised over $400,000 dollars in over two decades of auctions. All of your efforts and generosity and gifts to the auction have planted the seeds of faith in our children and youth so that they might claim the good news of God's love planted within them. Thank you for your ongoing support of this event and for continuing to plant of seeds of faith for future generations, in the sure and certain knowledge that God will provide the growth in God's garden of faith.

Together, let us keep on planting those seeds ...

Pastor Keith

“Loneliness and Zoom”

I love meetings, unfortunately. But it's not the subject matter or the decision-making process I like – it's being with people that I love. It is the stories, laughter, and tears we share that make meeting together a valuable experience. Virtual meetings are second alternatives, and while they have some practices that can help build connections in a virtual space, there is no way to replicate the dozens of personal interactions that come with meeting in person.

Interconnectedness and interdependence is integral to understanding the presence of the holy and divine. We mediate God for one another. Rosemarie Freeney Harding, in Remnants:

There is also growing evidence and scientific literature to indicate that interconnectedness problem is particularly pronounced among teens and young adults, who had 70% less social interaction with their friends than was common just two decades ago. The quantity of social interactions (views, likes, clicks) through social media might lead us to think there is increased connection, but the quality of relationships have diminished.

The mission of Carmichael Presbyterian Church is primarily expressed in relationships of love with each other because God first loved us (John 3:16; 1 John 4). We welcome, nurture, grow, connect, and serve. We are made wholly perfect in love.

So how can you deepen your connections with others? Invite someone to join you for a meal, and then let the conversation go deep. Can you plug into small groups, Bible studies, choirs, or service groups in a new way? Over the next couple months at Carmichael Presbyterian Church our Stephen Ministry will mark a great step forward as we complete training for and commission our first class of new Stephen Ministers in many years. If you or anyone you know struggles with loneliness, please talk to me or to one of our Stephen Ministers about it, or reach out to a doctor, a family member, or a trusted friend. When we come together in worship, study, fellowship, and service we are being made whole and are bringing each other back to life.

(Dare I suggest that saying, "Yes" to the nominating committee and attending meetings is good for your health?)

Presbyterian Women Sacred Encounters: The Presence of Jesus Christ in Luke-Acts

by Lisa Benadom

Lesson Eight of our study is entitled Lydia Encounters Jesus in Worship; Scripture: Acts 16:11-15. The lesson's focus is that baptism connects us to God and the community of faith. The author of our study, Olive Mahabir, encourages us to examine and identify our sacred encounters with Christ. Big or small, what encounters have taken place during your life?

Who is Lydia? How does her encounter with Paul prompt her to become a follower of Christ and to be baptized? How does her baptism impel her to join in Christ's mission to spread the good news? How does her gender and financial status factor in? As we delve into the study, we will examine all these questions and more. Discussion is sure to include the Reformed faith tradition of recognizing both infant baptism and believers' baptism. How is the act of baptism a sacred encounter in the church today?

If you are interested in exploring these questions, you are invited to attend our Pastor-led study via Zoom on the second Thursday, April 11 at 10:00 a.m. Contact Karen Gray in the office and she will be happy to include you on the list to receive the Zoom link. All are welcome. For those interested in learning more, a few copies of the study guide are available in the church office at no cost.

"Lydia Encounters Jesus in Worship" based on Acts 16:11-15 is the April PW study lesson.

PW Circle meetings are a time of fellowship, mission, prayer, and Bible study. Currently we have two Circles that meet on the third Thursday of the month in the DeVries Gathering Place. Contact the Circle Leaders if you have any questions. Naomi Circle meets at 9:30 a.m. (Leader: Bonnie Hard) and Mary Martha Circle meets at 1:00 p.m. (Co-Leaders Kathy Daigle and Lisa Benadom). Come be a part of our Sacred Encounter.

Children of God

by Misty Dunn, Stephen Minister/Leader

“You are all children of God through faith in Christ Jesus.

For all of you who were baptized into Christ have clothed yourselves with Christ.

There is no longer Jew or Greek, there is no longer slave or free, there is no longer male and female; for all of you are one in Christ Jesus.”

These are powerful words of welcome and oneness for all believers of Jesus! We are called to see every person (ourselves included!) as being made in God’s image. When we remember that we are called by Jesus to see others as our “neighbor” and to love them as ourselves, we are called to help wherever we can. Today’s world can feel overwhelming with the suffering we see around us: those threatened by war and violence, those living with poverty, the unhoused, the hostility among polarized groups, to name a few. It may be challenging to see how we could possibly bring the needed help and relief to those who are suffering in this wounded world. And yet, if we each do something, much can be accomplished! One small thing we each can do is to educate ourselves about the resources and possibilities that are available. We can be a welcoming face to everyone we meet, listen empathetically to those who need to share their difficulties, and reach out to include those who otherwise may not feel included.

“Thus says the Lord GOD, who gathers the outcasts of Israel,

I will gather others to them besides those already gathered.”

(Isaiah 56:8)

We know that God promises to always be with us, to love us no matter how life and others treat us. However, other people may not understand how that could be true for them or can’t see how they can continue with their situation as it is.

If we realize that a colleague, friend, or family member is struggling with challenging difficulties, and they need someone to talk to, someone who will listen with confidentiality, we can tell them about Stephen Ministry. This ministry is an extension of pastoral care allowing compassionate Christian care to be given weekly, one-to-one for as long as the person needs it. Stephen Ministers do not fix the person’s problems. Stephen Ministry training allows them to listen empathetically without judgment, to be a sounding board when needed, to help the person discern what is under their control to change, so they can move forward to meet their goals.

If you are interested in learning more about Stephen Ministry, contact any of the Stephen Leaders: Len Tozier, Misty Dunn, Mary Thomas, or John Wallace. If you would like to reach out for a Stephen Minister for yourself, please contact Len Tozier as the Care Referral Coordinator. The confidential CPC phone number for Stephen Ministry referrals is 916-486-0604.

News from CPC's Marinerships

Companionship

It was a dark and stormy afternoon when the Companionship met in the DeVries Gathering Place on March 2. Marti Wallace and Sharlene St. Clair had decorated the tables with spring flowers and Palestinian flags. The purpose of the meeting was to hear a wonderful presentation "One Sunday in Jerusalem." Our speaker was Bud Swank, a retired Baptist minister who lives with his wife, Dorothy, at Eskaton. Bud and Dorothy spent a month in Israel in 1993 and brought a video of his presentation at Eskaton.

The focus of Bud's talk was on the conditions in Jerusalem on the first Palm Sunday. He provided a detailed map of Jerusalem including the many sites of religious significance to the different religions of the city. We learned that the first Palm Sunday, also called Passion Sunday, was during the Passover when Jews try to return to Jerusalem. There were about 40,000 Jews living in Jerusalem at the time, but as many as 200,000 people visited the city during Passover. In addition Jews were asked to bring a sheep to the city to provide food for the travelers. So Jerusalem would have been a very busy and crowded city. We all appreciated what we learned about the first Palm Sunday.

Following the presentation we snacked on baklava, a tasty dessert from the Middle East, and all agreed we had learned a lot. If you'd like to visit our ship, please call Sharlene St. Clair, our Lookout.

Nautilus

For our March activity, Nautilus adopted a St. Patrick's Day theme in the parlor, with place settings that included green, Mardi Gras-like bead necklaces and little green chocolate mint candies.

Lunch was salads and desserts provided by members. There were assurances given that no animals were harmed in the process.

We enthusiastically welcomed guests Michael Lombrano, CPC's new Director of Children's and Youth Ministry and his delightful and enthusiastic wife, Savannah, who is training at UCD to become a physician's assistant.

After introducing ourselves individually to Michael and Savannah, they told us how they met and married and made the significant transition from seaside San Diego to Sacramento. Michael then took us on a fascinating tour through his own religious journey, including a moving faith testimony.

Thanks to the Frinks and

Skipjacks

Live shamrocks and fake pots of "gold" decorated the tables in the Parlor for our luncheon based on a St. Patrick's Day theme. Corned beef and cabbage, as well as potatoes, carrots, and soda bread, were the entree. All this was preceded by a relish tray and ended with a lime mousse and shamrock shaped cookies.

Bep van der Mik's devotional looked ahead to Easter. Upcoming events were described.

The next event will be Easter brunch at Jan's on April 6. A Wednesday Night Supper of April 17 was chosen for our cargo, and for it a baked spaghetti entree will be prepared by several cooks. We purchased an Apple iPad to donate as an item up for bidding at the Planting Seeds of Faith Auction. We sorted and weeded the Medical Equipment Closet during the all church workday. Sounds like a lot for a group of octogenarians, but we're still going strong!

Unsigned St. Pat's Day cards were handed out to Secret Pals, and most were of the sweet and friendly type, One exception:

"In your honor on St. P's Day, a shamrock has been planted in Ireland. (open card) Your day to water is Wednesday."

Prayers are raised for Dick & Carole Jacobi, whose house was damaged in a recent storm, Phil Mishler who is not well, and Steve Harrison who is now in a memory care home.
